Get updated on what's happening in the McDougall-Hunt community.

Just a reminder that even though the weather is getting warmer, certain COVID-19 restrictions are still in place. The Governor extended stay-at-home orders until May 28 but some things are re-opening. Masks are required upon entering any enclosed public space, including stores, gas stations, or workplaces. If you are called back to work your employer should provide you with safety equipment. Under the new order, several nonessential businesses can reopen. They include:

- Landscapers
- Lawn-service companies
- Nurseries
- Bike Repair Shops

Additionally, retailers that don't sell necessary supplies can reopen and deploy curbside pick-up and delivery. Big box stores that previously closed off areas like garden centers can reopen those departments.

For those that would like to participate in outdoor activities, they can play golf and ride on motorized boats. State parks remain open, but playground equipment remains off limits as of now.

Although Bailey Park's playscape is closed the rest of the space is open and waiting for you. Just be responsible and remember social distancing still applies outside.

Our Efforts Are Working, but Keep Them Going

The state has released a 6-stage guide to reopening called the Michigan Safe Start Plan. We are currently in stage 3, sustained flattening, which means we still have a ways to go before we can gather together, but lower-risk businesses such as manufacturing, construction, real estate, and outdoor work can resume operations. In stage 4, improving, there will be a clear decline in new cases and deaths. Stage 5, containment, means further decline in cases and deaths and new outbreaks are quickly identified and contained. Stage 6 is post-pandemic, where community spread is not expected to return. More details of the plan can be found at
